

Speakers Series Calumet College presents

HOWARD LEYTON-BROWN

Dr. Howard Leyton-Brown studied in Europe with two of the most respected violin teachers of the twentieth century. After some years in England, where he served as concertmaster of the London Philharmonic Orchestra, he relocated his family to Canada, and settled in Regina. As well as pursuing a solo career, he served, at various times, as Director of the Regina Conservatory of Music, Saskatchewan Director of the Western Board of Music, conductor of the Regina Symphony Orchestra, concertmaster of that orchestra, and Head of the Department of Music at the University of Regina. He is now Professor Emeritus of Music, and still teaching violin.

"Music as a Way of Life"

Howard Leyton-Brown

A discussion of the experiences of a professional musician, both positive and negative. The emphasis will be principally on the field of classical music in which the speaker has a wealth of knowledge, having been actively engaged at a high level in Australia, Europe, Canada and the United States.
